

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Ioma Clothing is a long-established supplier of workwear, PPE and uniforms to police, local authorities, universities and colleges, high street retailers, housing providers and commercial clients in the UK. We are committed to providing clients with a service and delivery that puts sustainability issues at our operations based upon our core business values.

To achieve this, we have developed and implemented an EMS (Environmental Management System) which ensures that our environmental objectives, policies, and procedures are embedded into our daily operations and are adhered to at all times. We measure and monitor our performance, which enables us continually to improve our delivery.

In particular we are committed to:

- Taking a lifecycle approach to continually improve our business products, processes and other areas of our EMS to enhance our environmental performance.
- Protecting the environment and preventing pollution by examining the environmental impact of our products and services.
- Working with all key suppliers and service providers to continually deliver efficiency, innovation and sustainability improvements.
- Complying with all applicable environmental legislation and all other compliance obligations.
- Training all our staff to ensure they have the required skills and competences to perform their duties in a manner that takes into consideration any potential environmental impact.
- Maximising efficiency and reducing waste in all areas of our business.

Our main environmental objectives include:

- Reducing energy.
- Maximising the use of high recycled-content materials.

The Company's senior management team will ensure that this policy is maintained, relevant and made available as appropriate.
